

Dear CCPC Friends,

As we move into the final weeks of the season of Lent, I am inspired by the many ways our community has come together to go deeper into the journey to the cross. A life in community is a rich life indeed. It is no coincidence that the word is featured prominently in the very name of our church. The Dutch priest Henri Nouwen lived much of his life in community with others. He wrote:

“If you start with community and want to be faithful to community, you have to realize that what binds you together is not mutual compatibility or common tasks, but God. “

I have noticed over the past few weeks, that God has been part of our "mutual compatibility" and our "common tasks." In witnessing many of you responding to worship with the weekly Lenten Expressions, sharing the daily prayers and devotionals, and participating in the weekly meditation group, I have seen God at work. Even the light-hearted sharing of our individual Lenten commitments has served to bind us together in community. (Hang there — only a few more weeks!) I hope that you, too, have felt this strengthening of our community. I have to believe that it is pleasing to God.

As we look toward Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday, I encourage you to lean into the richly meaningful scripture stories that detail our messiah's final days on earth. These are perhaps the most dynamic and sacred days of our church calendar. Let us move through them together, in community, bound by our love of God made complete in Christ Jesus.

Peace,

Pastor Susan
